

Nagoya University
Graduate School of Bioagricultural Sciences
School of Agricultural Sciences

Professor Tim Colmer, Acting Pro Vice-Chancellor (Research),
The University of Western Australia, Visits Nagoya

Professor Tim Colmer, Acting Pro Vice-Chancellor and Plant Biologist, The University of Western Australia (UWA), Perth, Australia visited Nagoya University this week.

Graduate School of Bioagricultural Sciences started the Joint PhD Program with UWA Faculty of Science in April 2019. So, he invested the time needed for consultation of the participating students in the program and their supervisors, as well as meetings with parties concerned in collaboration research, not only plant biology also other fields, and inter-university relation this time.

In particular, this visit became a good booster for the participators in the Joint PhD Program of which enrollment this year is four.