

Characteristic and risk on salvage cutting operations of windfall trees

Tadashi Hatabu, Kazuhiro Yabe, Yuki Imatomi

Keyword: salvage cutting operations of windfall trees, stress, labor accidents, near accidents

Salvage cutting operations of windfall trees require specialty operations compared to normal felling operations. Because windfall trees have inherent the stress.

In salvage cutting operation of windfall trees, workers are required specialty operations decreasing working risk.

There is a possibility that unexpected labor accidents or near accidents occur while working even if a worker operates carefully.

Therefore the author presented the measures for safety operations on the salvage cutting of windfall trees by analyzing the site investigation.