

Philippine high school students visit our graduate school

A group of 12 high school students and 3 teachers from the University of the Philippines Rural High School visited our graduate school on December 20, 2019, by participating in a 2-week study tour across Japan. The students, all interested in science and technology, visited a few laboratories in our graduate school. Dean Tsuchikawa and Vice Dean Yamauchi explained Nagoya University and School of Agricultural Sciences/Graduate School of Bioagricultural Sciences and talked frankly with the students. Professor Mattew Linley, Department of International Programs, International Education & Exchange Center, explained the Nagoya University G30 undergraduate programs that are all taught in English in his seminar. We hope that the study tour has become a precious experience for the Philippine high school students and inspired them to study in Japan in the near future.

Photo taken at the large meeting room of our graduate school

Seminar by Prof Linley about the G30 program